

NEW ABSTRACT

An DC/AC converter for supplying two gas discharge lamps, includes a double bridge configuration of four switches and a controller. The controller controls the conducting periods of the switches with a duty cycle which is variable. By control of the conducting periods of the switches, a proper control of the energy supplied to the lamps is obtained.